HICO

In the city election here yesterday 220 votes were cast. Dr. Daniel Pingree was re-elected mayor. He had no potato patch farm, but the people of Hico say with pride that he is as good a mayor as his near relative, who has such fame.

P.P. Porter was elected city marshal, and S.W. Barrow, G.W. Hall and Wm. Connolly were elected aldermen.

After the result of the election was announced a large procession of men and boys appeared on the streets leading a jack. They placed each of the newly elected officials by turns on the jack and marched through the principal streets beating drums and tin pans, rattling bells and playing on various kinds of musical instruments while the boys all yelled and threw up their hats.
